

Kansas City, Mo., Maps Data Related to Digital Inclusion

Zack Quaintance | May 17, 2017

As Kansas City, Mo., CIO Bob Bennett is fond of pointing out, his community has the largest smart city footprint in North America, complete with a collection of smart streetcars that collect data for public-facing websites — data that gets as specific as the location of open parking spots.

<http://www.govtech.com/civic/Kansas-City-Mo-Maps-Data-Related-to-Digital-Inclusion.html>